VINTAGE

A rainy and mild winter left good water reserves in the soil; December had three times the usual amount of rainfall. Spring came early and was dry, with a cool start to summer in the early days and warm afterwards. Veraison took place in mid-July. The end of the summer brought with it hot spells that brought forward the harvest, which began on 28 August. The rains at the beginning of September helped to freshen the vines. The wines of this vintage show very attractive fruit and fine tannins.

TASTING NOTES

Exotic and intense on the nose, with a broad aromatic palette. Energetic, persistent, silky. Well-polished tannins.

AGEING

Bottled in April 2025 after 16 months of ageing in foudres and French oak barrels of different ages.
